A simple red arrow pointing to the right, indicating a direction or flow.

A simple red line drawing of a head, possibly a deer or moose, featuring large, prominent antlers extending upwards and outwards.

A red hand-drawn diagram consisting of four circles arranged in a horizontal row. Each circle contains a curved arrow pointing clockwise. Lines connect the top-left circle to the top-right circle, the top-right circle to the bottom-right circle, and the bottom-right circle back to the top-left circle, creating a closed loop.

A diagram consisting of two red circles and a horizontal line segment connecting them. The left circle has a red arrow pointing towards it from the top-left, and the right circle has a red arrow pointing towards it from the bottom-right.

A red ink line drawing of a person sitting cross-legged. The person is wearing a long-sleeved shirt and pants. They are holding a small, round object, possibly a ball or a piece of fruit, in their hands. The drawing is done in a simple, gestural style.
